INSTRUCTIONS: Write the class heading and skip one line. Write two citations for the reading, skipping one line after each citation. Except for number 1, answer the following questions in complete sentences. Remember, incorporate part of the question into each answer.

1. Define: moot (word: part of speech: definition. Then go to the next line and write a sentence that correctly uses the word.)
2. Do you think you have a Constitutional right to distribute religious literature on a university campus? Briefly explain why or why not.
3. Why do you think the former student is suing for only $1? What does this show?
4. If the school repeals the policy, does that undo the harm caused to you? Explain why or why not.
5. If the courts rule that once the policy is changed, there can no longer be a legal challenge, could schools play a game of “cat and mouse,” changing policies when complaints come in and then changing them back when complainants graduate? Explain.
6. What reason might the student have to want a ruling in this case other than the $1?
7. If Taylor Swift can be sued and can counter-sue for $1, should this case be able to, or is this case different? Explain.
8. Do you think universities should be able to designate certain areas “free speech zones” or do you think you should be able to speak freely and distribute literature as long as you’re not disrupting any classes, etc.? Explain your position.
9. Why do you think the university changed their policy?
10. Do you trust that -- without a court ruling -- the university will not change back to the previous policy? Explain why or why not.
